

or took the special train down to Pearl City on Monday night to attend the wedding of Miss Alice Cooper, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Henry E. Cooper, to Mr. George William Bafley, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Balley, of Boston. The affair was undoubtedly the most brilliant event of the year, and some of the guests went so far as to say "of many years." The Cooper residence, which is built on the old Spanish style with a court surrounded by low lying balconies off which the drawing room! and various bed rooms open, made a most picturesque setting for the marrisge. The large grounds which in themselves are so beautiful with tropical verdure as not to need embellishment, were further decorated with strings of Japanese lanteras and the flags of many nations which waved softly to and fro in the summer breeze. The house itself was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The court in which the ceremony took place was a veritable bower of flewers, ferns and bamboo, a color scheme of pink and green predominating throughout the whole. Lovely white ascension lilies were used in great profusion, linked with white tufle to mark the aisle and combined with baskets of shell pink begonias and carnations to form an altar. The bride and groom stood beneath a large wedding bell made of soft white cheanders and maiden hair ferns. On either side were half arches of the Hies and begonias, backed by tall sims and feathery bamboo. Two onze Cupids, each holding a cluster of wax candles, softly illuminated this ot which was otherwise without light. In other parts of the room were hung wonderful baskets of sparagus and tropical ferns white ines trailed along the sides of the onles to join banks of potted adian and maiden hair fern on the oor of the court. The large drawg room which was thrown open for cing was decorated simply but dectively with palms and bamboo. bile bowls of pink carnations noded to their own reflections in the g French mirrors.
